FIGHTING IN STREETS OF BERLIN WAS BLOODIEST OF WAR

Berlin School Teacher Cites
Instance in Which Turks
Assailed Him and Two Other
German Soldiers

ANTWERP, Jan. 25.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.) A story told by a Berlin school teacher confirms what many have said about the bloodiness of the fighting which took place in the streets of Dixmude.

The teacher and two other Berlin school teachers—a lawyer and a publisher—were entering that little town in Flanders with other German soldiers by some of the main streets, when they became the prey of Turkish fighting. They darted from narrow side streets and houses, and as they were being related, sprang upon the heavier German tanks so many times.

The Berlin school teacher men had just rounded one of the corners of the city when they were suddenly surprised from their comrades by a rush of Turkish from the first station. There was nothing they could do but back into a door opening, and here they tried to put a rather large crowd of Turkish at bay. What happened next is best told by the teacher, who now has the less exciting job of doing sentry duty on one of the local wharves, for which deed he received a wound in the thigh is responsible.

"The Turkish went on with me and my two companions," he said, "I can still see their rolling eyes and white teeth. They seemed to literally thirst for our blood. But their yelling and shouting was worse, perhaps, than their efforts to finish the three of us. Every time we put a bullet into one of them, or jabbed the bayonet home, the awful racket the fellows made with their leather-lined coats increased.

"But we kept on shooting into the crowd, delaying the end, which seemed all too close.

"Finally one of us three, the publisher, went down with a shot in the head—skull fractured. The Turkish thought that now they would get an end to the business. So also thought a French officer, who went down a second later with the bayonet of the lawyer sticking in his chest. Then the lawyer went down. I was alone then, and thought it was all over.

"Just then a large flash rose from the ground before me. The explosion which followed drowned the voices of the yelling Turks. Then I went down with my thigh split wide open by one of the splinters of the shell.

"The spot was a sight when I regained my senses. Dead and mutilated Turks everywhere. About eight o'clock that night and hours too soon. My comrades are still in the hospital. They are men over forty, not quite so likely to recuperate rapidly.

All three have been given the iron cross second class.

CHURCH WORKERS MAKE UNIQUE CANVASS TO RAISE FUNDS FOR THE YEAR'S EXPENSES

Picture shows eighty members of First Presbyterian church who made an "every-member" canvass of the members of the church Sunday afternoon to raise money for paying the church's operating expenses during 1915. The eighty canvassers went in pairs in forty automobiles to the homes of the members of the church on Marietta street, with automobiles in foreground.

NEW TRADE ROUTE OPENED THROUGH ALASKAN RIVER

Find Channel From Sea to Kuskokwim After Four Years' Work

By Ralph Smith.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—What is recognized by Alaska as the most important and perhaps the most sensational announcement relating to Alaska made by the government in years came out today in the official statement that a channel has been found from the sea to the Kuskokwim river. It is asserted that this will give access by steamer to all that vast region of southwestern Alaska lying south of the Yukon river and west of the Sushana valley.

It is further claimed that the discovery of this channel will open up a ready-made waterway for the gold-bearing mining interests of the Kuskokwim region, and that the new route will be a gold-bearing river, a place of commerce, and a place of commerce.

Alaskans long have cast covetous eyes at the Kuskokwim valley. The few extra adventurous prospectors who penetrated the region came out with fabulous tales of the possibilities, but coupled always with the admission that nothing practical could be done without better transportation facilities. Through the urgent prompting of the people of the territory the United States coast and geodetic survey undertook to find a way through the Kuskokwim river.

This was in 1911 and the work has been prosecuted ever since. Today the survey announced that the work is completed and that when navigation opens next spring charts will be ready for navigators.

This means that a road has been opened through a mud flat at the mouth of the river 160 miles in extent, an obstacle heretofore regarded as insurmountable. But with the channel discovered, steamers will be able to penetrate more than 600 miles into the heart of the territory and thereby serve an area more than five times the size of the state.

This will make accessible a river dreamed of and unknown for 100 years and will open to the miner and the pioneer a region now least known in North America.

The difficulties to be overcome in finding the channel into the river were enormous. Of course the work could be prosecuted only during the short northern summer. Last summer the entire working season consisted of eighty-three days, and of these, 29 1/2 were lost in July alone because of a mist, which made surveying impossible through the fact that the surveyors had to maintain their bearings by observations resting on mountain peaks six miles away. In all, the survey took 14,256 soundings.

The Kuskokwim is the second largest river in Alaska, the Yukon alone being bigger. It is nine miles wide at the mouth and the submerged flats of the delta extend 100 miles out to sea. It was through this submerged area that the coast and geodetic survey hunted diligently for four years before the passage admitting steamers was found.

COUNTY SURVEYOR'S JOB NOT MUCH SOUGHT AFTER

County surveyors' jobs in Georgia appear to be going begging these days, due, it is said, to the fact that in recent years there has been a considerable falling off in the amount of official surveying to be done in most of the counties. The state comptroller has been told that the fees for this service are very small.

Surveyors elected in Screven, Cherokee and Jeff Davis counties have declined to serve, and the governor has been asked whether special elections must be held in these counties to choose their successors. The question has been put up to Attorney General Warren Grice, who has ruled that the ordinary in each of the three counties shall appoint surveyors to serve out the unexpired terms.

member" canvass which was the first of its kind to be undertaken by this church and probably the first ever made in the city.

The eighty men, among whom were some of Atlanta's best known citizens, met at the church at 3 o'clock and were paired, and then in forty automobiles they set forth to see the members of the church, the aim being to call upon every member at his home and take his subscription, in whatever amount he desired to give, to the church's expenses for the year.

The membership of the church is something over 500. These were divided among the forty pairs of canvassers, each pair having the names and residence addresses of the members they were to see. The whole thing was mapped out carefully and systematically, and within three hours the canvass had been finished.

The canvassers will meet at the church Monday evening to make their reports, and not until then will be known how much money was subscribed. It is confidently expected, however, that the full amount needed, with perhaps a margin for emergency, will be shown by the reports of the unique campaign.

The response to the call for men to make the canvass, furnish automobiles, and aid in other ways, and the interest displayed by canvassers and members of the church generally, constitute one of numerous evidences of a great awakening spirit of enthusiasm in the First Presbyterian church.

The "every-member" canvass was suggested by Dr. J. Sprule Lyons, the new pastor of the church, who has used it very successfully in churches where he has served as pastor.

GUARD MAY BE PLACED ON CANADIAN BOUNDARY

Plan Considered to Keep Out
Citizens of Nations Hostile to England

(By Associated Press.)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 25.—Major W. Tait and Colonel F. B. Gregory, of the Canadian national reserve, proposed going to Victoria today to lay before the federal government, through the major general Sir Hughes, minister of militia, a plan for guarding with the men of the reserve force the boundary line between Canada and the United States. This will be done to keep out any hostile citizens of the countries with which Great Britain is at war and prevent residents of those countries now in Canada from crossing into the United States.

Cooperation of United States officials would be sought.

Keep Young while growing Old—

AFTER all, youth is often more a matter of nerves than of years. You see that proven almost every day—this man of thirty, nerves wrecked and old before his time—that man, sixty but bright-eyed, sprightly because he kept his nerves youthful.

It is in this care of the nerves that Sanatogen is of such signal service. For to the hungry nerves, impoverished by overdrains, illness, worries and neglect, Sanatogen brings just the foods they must have for speedy restoration to health—pure albumen and organic phosphorus in easily taken-up form.

And you—if the average of 21,000 physicians and the grateful praise of scores of noted people—if that testimony means anything—you will not long delay giving Sanatogen its opportunity to help you.

Sanatogen is sold by good druggists everywhere in the United States from $1.00 up.

increase since war have in Many Instances Gone Above 800 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Evidence of extraordinary advances in transatlantic freight rates since outbreak of the war in Europe, amounting in some instances to 800 and even 1,150 per cent, was presented today in a joint report from Secretaries McAdoo and Jelliffe.

While this report is being written, the statement says, "information is received that rates are higher than those given in some of the tables presented, and that even at these extraordinary figures, it is difficult to obtain cargo space for earlier sailings than March and April."

The report contains numerous tables of rates on various commodities and summaries of the principal advances since August last. Grain and cotton are the most prominent.

"New York to Rotterdam on grain 500 per cent; on flour 500 per cent; on cotton 100 per cent; on flour 500 per cent; on cotton 100 per cent."

"New York to Liverpool on the same commodities from 200 to 300 per cent."

"Baltimore to European ports (excepting Germany) on grain 611 per cent; on flour 344 per cent; on cotton 611 per cent."

"The TONNAGE RATES JUMP."

"Norfolk to Liverpool, on grain 157 to 200 per cent; on cotton 184 per cent."

"Norfolk to Rotterdam on cotton 21 per cent; to Bremen 1,150 per cent; to London 115 to 115 per cent."

"Savannah to Liverpool on cotton 250 per cent; to Bremen 300 per cent; to London 250 per cent; on cotton 351 per cent; to Bremen on cotton 1,041 to 1,150 per cent."

"In one year, if American exports maintain the December, 1914, level, the report declares, the increased rates will mean a loss of $22,224,000 on American shippers, and that if the imports are included in the same basis of calculation, the amount would reach the sum of $21,844,400, or 14.18 per cent over the usual cost. If normal rates are taken in conjunction with the abnormal on the December basis the total charge on both exports and imports in a year would total $532,110,000.

HIT FARMERS HARD.

"It will be observed," says the report, "that the greatest increases in rates and the heaviest loss has been borne by the farmer in which the American farmer is most concerned, notably grain and cotton. Grain and cotton constitute the great bulk of our export trade and have the largest influence in throwing the balance of foreign trade in favor of this country."

"This increase is particularly onerous upon the cotton producers of the south, because it comes at a time when the effects of the war have greatly reduced the value of cotton and when the south-eastern farmers are least able to bear additional burdens."

BUSINESSMEN HELPERS.

"The business community can increase rates without notice and upon the instant, and our business men are helping them. They are seriously checking our foreign trade, and in some cases such as lumber and coal are stopping altogether."

"The report concludes with an argument in favor of the ship purchase bill in which the senate is reminded that such unusual freight charges, if continued, may result in creating a big balance of trade against this nation. It points out that of American ships all trade worth about $500,000,000, the property of some of the largest firms in the world, is valued at $60,000,000 in the foreign trade. It says that the government should not do anything to cause competition with this $60,000,000 of private capital invested in ships, although foreign trade is left thereby entirely at the mercy of foreign shipping interests and the relatively small amount of American capital invested in ships engaged in the foreign trade."

LONDON WAR OFFICE OFFICIAL STATEMENT DENIES LOSS OF SHIP

ers steering westward and apparently making for the English coast.

The enemy at once made for home at high speed. They were at once pursued, and at about 9:30 a. m. action was joined between the battle cruisers Lion, Princess Royal, New Zealand and Indomitable on the one hand and the Blücher on the other. A well contested running fight ensued. Shortly after 1 o'clock the Blücher, which had previously fallen out of line, capsized and sank.

"Admiral Beatty reports that two other battle cruisers were seriously damaged. They were, however, able to continue their flight, and reached an area where dangers from German submarines and mines prevented further pursuit.

"No British ships have been lost, and our casualties in personnel as at present reported are slight, the Lion, which led the line, having only eleven wounded and no killed.

"One hundred and twenty-three survivors have been rescued from the Blücher's crew of 845, and it is possible that others have been saved by one of our destroyers. The reports of any destroyer or light cruiser fighting have yet been received at the admiralty, though some have apparently taken place.

"Their lordships have expressed their satisfaction to Vice Admiral Sir David Beatty.

"This engagement keeps up the reputation of the present war for Sunday fighting which has been so frequent both on land and on sea that Sunday has now come to be a day of increased vigilance rather than of relaxation.

LAND FIGHTING.

No important developments in the land fighting on either front have been reported in London, but some improvement in the weather in the west has resulted in considerable activity which, however, thus far has produced no notable results.

The contending forces in Bukovina are forming for a new battle, and the Austrians claim the advantage in the preliminary skirmishes. The region and claim also they have driven back the Russian advance through some of the Carpathian passes.

The Turks, according to London reports, have suffered another reverse at Erzerum in Turkish territory.

The question of food supply is being considered urgently in both London and Berlin. The British government has appointed a cabinet committee to take control of British shipping.

As to the food situation in Germany the Berlin press is reinforcing the rumor voiced at a meeting of the government committee that all stocks of foodstuffs in the country have been commandeered by the government, and by way of home there have come reports of bread riots in Austria and Hungary, during the week.

Germany's food supply was badly wounded and his palace burned down.

Berlin Admits Reverse in West, Claims Gain in East

BERLIN, Jan. 25.—(By Wireless.)—Sanguinary fighting continued in Alsace, on the eastern end of the front line, which extends from the North sea to Switzerland, according to official statements. The German general army headquarters today reported that the Germans claim to have repulsed all the attacks of the French in France the Germans concede the loss of a trench to the southwest of Berry-au-Bac.

In East Prussia the Germans claim to have inflicted heavy losses on the Russians in engagements to the north-east of Gumbinnen, which lies about twenty miles west of the Russian border.

The statement follows:

"There were artillery duels near Nieputer and near Ypres yesterday. The French lost one trench taken a few days ago from the French.

"South of the Camp of Chalons yesterday only artillery engagements took place and there are being continued today.

"Infantry fighting still continues in the Argonne forest, while to the north of Verdun and Toul the artillery is very active.

"All the French attacks on Hartmannswörthgen were repulsed with heavy losses. No less than 400 Chasseurs were killed.

ROOT IS GREATLY PEEVED BY SHIP PURCHASE BILL

Senator Rails at Democrats Because They Will Not Argue With Him About It

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Senator Root led the Republican attack on the administration ship bill in the senate today with a denunciation of Democratic measures which made the bill a party measure of the parliamentary tactics by which the Democrats have so far forced the Republicans to do all the debating and finally with denunciation of the bill itself.

"The attitude of the Democrats he characterized as 'conspiracy of silence' to put through the bill by pressure of 'physical weakness.' For ten days, he said, the minority had been compelled to face the prospect of a night-hour continuous talk without a word of discussion from the majority side and without more than half a dozen Democratic members in the chamber.

"It is a shame, he said, that this bill which would put the government into the business of foreign shipping is being put through the kind of discussion it should have," said he. "It is important not merely because it involves a vast expenditure at a time when we have been forced to make up a deficit, but also because it embarks the government on a new departure based on a reversal of principle of government long maintained. No such change in policy was contemplated by the people when they put the present administration in power.

The Democratic leaders are now counting on passage of the bill before many weeks and hopes to have the support of some of the Progressive Republicans who are inclined to view the measure with more favor than heretofore.

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Carried Her Safely Through Change of Life.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa.—"At the Change of Life the doctor said I would have to give up my work and take my bed for some time as there was no help for me but to lie still. I took Lydia E.
